NEWS RELEASE

Bow to Swear in Margaret Lougee as Next Chief of Police

Bow Town Manager David Stack has announced that he has chosen Sgt. Margaret Lougee to serve as the Town's next Chief of Police.

A formal swearing-in ceremony and reception will be held on Monday, November 14, 5:00 p.m., at the Old Town Hall, 91 Bow Center Road. All townspeople are welcome to attend.

"It's quite an honor and privilege to be the Chief of Police in, and for, the town that I grew up in." Lougee said. "We have a great department."

Lougee has been with the Bow Police Department since 1996 and has served as the school resource officer for the past 10 years. "Margaret knows the Bow community very well and the community knows her. She has formed close relationships with many of the Town's residents and that is very important to them." said Town Manager David Stack. Lougee also served as a Master Sergeant in the NH Air National Guard, retiring after 21 years of service to our country.

Stack added "I very much look forward to working together with Chief Lougee and the rest of the members of the Department. We have a very talented and team oriented group of people and I am very confident that they will continue to shine under her leadership."
